WARRENSBURG, Mo., Dec. 6, '85. As Christmas is drawing near, my mind is inclined to the many attractions of "Old Chariton", and thinking a few items from the busy burg of Warrensburg, might be of interest to some of the many readers of the "hasty messenger," I shall improve this opportunity in that direction.

Although business is dull, Warrensburg is improving. Several new edifices are being built, and among them is an addition to the Normal school building, which, when completed, will add much to its beauty and convenience. The addition is of the same structure as the main building, being 114x66 feet, and three stories high. The first floor has ten rooms; second floor, six large recitation and two small cloak rooms; the third floor is divided into an assembly room and a library. The assembly room is 62x85 feet, and 34 feet high. It will seat 500 at double desks. The building is nearing completion and will probably be ready for use at the beginning of the third term, January 25. In addition to this commodious and elegant structure, which, when completed, will, as a normal building, rank second to none in the state, the school is supplied with a corps of lively, energetic, and instructive teachers, and all those desiring aid and assistance as teachers, will find all the information and methods of conveying precepts of knowledge necessary at the Warrens-

Another attraction of the city is the Purtle springs, the Saratoga of the west, situated one mile south of town, the water of which has recently been analyzed and found to possess medical qualities equal to, if not greater(?), than any of the medical springs. Mr. Christopher has for the last six months, had workingmen largely engaged in improving the ground upon which the springs are situated; drives, walks and roads have been made, a pagoda erected. and numerous other improvements, at the cost of $1,000. Lots have been purchased by quite a number of influential and wealthy gentlemen from Colorado, Kansas City, this and neighboring towns, and when spring comes a number of useful and important buildings will be built, and it is not to be doubted that in the near future, these marvelous springs will not only be of benefit to the emaciated invalid, but afford a pleasant and comfortable resort for those seeking a haven of refuge from the baking stones and bricks of the sweltering cities.

Hoping this will escape the gulping mouth of the waste-basket, I trust it to its fate. M. J. V.

Kissing Babies-Nip it in the Bud.

Eleanor Kirk comes out in an elequent article defending babies and young children from promisenous kissing by all sorts of people. - She is right. This thing of everybody kissing all the babies is all wrong. Still now, you take a gi I haby about between four and live feet old; just getting into long dresses, you know; pretty, you know; hair banged and frizzled and shurred, and her face washed real clean, and you be in the parlor with her, sitting on a sofa about big enough for one and a half, and her tather standing in the door kind of casually looking in on youah, you wouldn't kiss her for a dollar. It's easy enough to check this promiscuous kissing of girl babies if you go at it in the right way .--Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.
